

|                           |   |                       |
|---------------------------|---|-----------------------|
| P R E S S   R E L E A S E |   | FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE |
| Contact:                  | ESCCO(405) 526.2317 VoiceOffice@escoco-online.org Email | January 10, 2020      |

Executive Service Corps of Central Oklahoma (ESCCO) Hires Wilson as President & CEO

Oklahoma City, OK – January 10, 2020 – ESCCO hired Wendi Wilson as President & CEO.

With an over twenty year passion for nonprofits and the work they do, Wilson seemed a natural fit for the reimagined ESCCO. In its twenty-five year history ESCCO had been a go-to resource for local nonprofits in need of professional level guidance, but over time the organization had a stagnant feel. Wilson was hired to help the organization appeal to a new generation of volunteer executives with skill-sets that are relevant to the needs of today’s nonprofits. And she’s been tasked with setting ESCCO on the path of continued success for the next twenty-five years.

Wilson holds a B.S. in Sociology from Southern Nazarene University and an M.A. in Nonprofit Leadership from Oklahoma City University. In her roles prior to joining ESCCO, she started a nonprofit consulting business, worked as a marketing and community outreach leader for a hospital system in Oklahoma, and served as the Board President for the Oklahoma City Orchestra League, as well as an ESCCO volunteer consultant. Paul Moore, Retired CEO of ESCCO, said “Wendi Wilson has been an outstanding ESCCO volunteer consultant, and more recently, a great addition to the staff. As ESCCO’s new Executive Director, the organization will benefit from her experience and connections to the nonprofit community”

More information about ESCCO is available at the company’s website at <https://www.escoco-online.org>

As part of ESC-US, Executive Service Corps of Central Oklahoma delivers professional volunteer management consulting, which moves nonprofits to greater performance excellence. For more information, contact ESCCO at (405) 526-2317.

###